Drivers feel force of car crackdown

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A TOWN centre is swamped with disabled drivers, with Blue Badge holders arriving at a rate of one a minute during a two-hour enforcement campaign.

Police and councillors joined forces on Monday to clamp down on drivers flouting traffic regulations which ban most drivers from Haverhill High Street between 10am and 4pm.

Every car attempting to drive into the street was stopped and those not entitled to enter were turned away.

During the period 93 Blue Badge holders were admitted, a well as 13 delivery drivers and 13 people requiring access to business premises.

A total of 80 drivers trying to enter the High Street from Camps Road were turned away and another 29 trying to turn into the street from Swan Lane. No tickets were issued to people for parking illegally.

Three more days of action will take place, without prior warning, with drivers entering or parking illegally issued with fixed penalty tickets.

The campaign follows residents insisting that the law be upheld by the police at a recent priority setting meeting, even though Inspector

Golfers tee off and raise £8k for charity

EIGHTY-EIGHT golfers helped to raise £8,000 at a housing group's eighth annual golf day in aid of charities in the Suffolk area.

Affordable homes provider Haverbury held the event at Haverhill Golf Club in Coupals Road, with the proceeds to be split between four charities.

Benefiting are Haverhill poverty charity REACH Community Projects, the Haverhill Gateway Club, which supports people with learning disabilities, drug and alcohol rehabilitation charity Focus12 in Bury St Edmunds and the town's branch of the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Haverbury chief executive Karen Mayhew said: "We are thrilled that the event was so successful and we can donate a substantial sum to each of these worthy causes. The £8,000 raised this year brings our overall golf day total to £60,000 over the last eight years which is a fantastic sum of money."

The event included a dinner as well as a raffle and charity auction. Winning the competition with 87 points was Hurrell's, whose members were Haverbury technician Shaun Hurrell, John Bishop, Mike Lloyd and Dave Morton. They won a pair of golf shoes each.

Businesses hit after power supplies cut

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

SCORES of businesses found themselves without power on Tuesday afternoon when an electrical fire cut off supplies for several hours.

Customers had to leave the Déjà Vu café in Queen Street, Haverhill, and staff evacuated the adjoining Weekly News office when they smelt smoke.

The fire service checked the buildings to make sure it was safe to return. Fifty nine businesses in Queen Street and High Street were left without power but most had their supply restored by the evening.

Queen Street was closed to traffic and engineers worked through the night to isolate the problem.

They replaced a faulty piece of pipe which had caused the power loss and everyone's supply was back on by Wednesday morning.

Repairs: workmen in Queen Street after the power cut on Tuesday.

Harry Zachariou, owner of Déjà Vu, said: "It has been a bit of a nightmare, but it is just one of those things that happen. We did stay open for a while, but if you are a coffee shop that cannot sell coffee it is a bit embarrassing. We closed up completely by about 3.30pm.

"They did respond very quickly and did everything they could to resolve the problem.

"They worked with us and because I still had people working here at midnight, they agreed to delay switching off the power again for half an hour until they were finished.

"I was in London when it happened, but I got in touch with electrician Colin Bradnam and he dropped everything to come and check it out straight away."

A Spokesman for UK Power

Networks said: "Engineers worked through the night to restore electricity supplies to customers in the High Street and Queen Street area of Haverhill following a fault on a piece of equipment on our low-voltage network.

"Power was interrupted to 59 customers at about 12.30pm yesterday. 31 customers had their supplies returned to normal by 2.10pm and a further 26 customers at 7.45pm.

"Two properties were still off supply and it was necessary to isolate supplies to nearby properties to carry out the work in safety to restore supplies to these two properties.

"As some of these were takeaway shops which were still trading, at their request, we delayed this repair until after midnight.

"Supplies to 69 properties were then isolated at 12.50am today while the final repairs were carried out and all supplies were restored at 1.38am.

"We realise how difficult it is to be without power and apologise for any inconvenience."

'We saw clearly the exact scale of the problem'

Peter Ferrie of Haverhill police believes his officers could be better occupied elsewhere.

Some suggested clamping or towing vehicles away to overcome the long-standing problem of drivers entering the street during prohibited hours and parking on the pavements.

Inspector Ferrie said: "It was very interesting to see the level of people trying to get into the High Street. I think it was far more than any of us expected. The vast majority of vehicles saw us there and turned their steering wheels to drive straight across.

"Even with just the drivers entitled to enter, there is no way our High Street can accommodate even a fraction of that number of Blue Badge holders.

"When I walk up and down the street, parked cars are nearly all Blue Badge holders, many of them issued in neighbouring areas of Essex and Cambridgeshire.

"Perhaps they come here because they can drive into the High Street. We saw very clearly the exact scale of the problem. Because we had officers in the High Street a lot of drivers were circling round trying to find a legal place to park.

"There are just too many of them to park anywhere in the High Street."

Inspector Ferrie was one of seven officers out enforcing the regulations, along with Town mayor Pat Hanlon, borough and county councillor Tim Marks and Town Clerk Will Austin.

Four more days of action will be held, without any prior warning, with tickets issued to offending motorists.

Cllr Pat Hanlon, Haverhill Town mayor, said: "It is a very controversial issue, but people have to obey the law, which says they are not allowed in there between 10am and 4pm.

"Even Blue Badge holders are not allowed to park on the pavement.

"We have had two or three people report to us that they have actually been hit by cars while walking on the pavement, although fortunately not seriously injured.

"The town council is going for closure between 10am and 4pm because the survey we did showed that is what the majority of people want.

"It is an experiment today that everyone has known about - but there will be four more dates and even I don't know when they will be."

Fond farewell to doctor as he heads for African post

A DOCTOR has attended a farewell party with colleagues at the surgery where he has worked for the past 30 years - before heading off to do voluntary work in Africa for a year.

Dr Andrew Cornish and wife Lindsey were joined by crowds of wellwishers from the Christmas Maltings and Clements surgery in Haverhill. Dr Cornish, 58, will leave for Ethiopia at the end of the month, where he will work for the Voluntary Service Overseas organisation, helping to set up pre-natal, post-natal and childcare services.

His wife, who will travel back and forth from Africa, has organised a series of fundraising activities to help cover the cost of her husband's trip and support his work in Ethiopia.

Dr Cornish said: "The support I have received has been fantastic. We have raised £12,500, which is really wonderful. I shall be buying equipment such as stethoscopes and other things they need, which can be left there when I leave."

Donations can be made at www.justgiving.com/Lindsey-Cornish.

Anthony takes title with his sound of music

MUSICIANS from across Europe arrived in Haverhill to make their mark at an annual soloist competition.

The 23rd competition organised by Haverhill Sinfonia began as a modest competition, but is now a prestigious international event, which this year has attracted 164 entrants of 35 nationalities.

Twenty-five musicians were selected to compete in the final at Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday.

The winner was English saxophone player Anthony Brown.

On offer overall were 38 prizes to the value of £9,125 plus 26 solo engagements throughout the UK.

The adjudicating panel was Kevin Hill (music director, Haverhill Sinfonia), Caroline Palmer (professor of piano and chamber music, Guildhall School of Music and Drama) and Gary Ryan (assistant head of strings & professor of guitar, Royal College of Music).

Sponsors of this year's competition were Balaam's Music (Bury St Edmunds), Empire Pianos (Braintree), Evans-Pughe Strings of Hitchin Ltd, Genzyme Ltd, Glasswells Ltd, Haverhill Research Park, Haverhill Town Council, International Flavours and Fragrances (GB) Ltd, MachinePart Engineering Ltd, Marchant Manufacturing Co. Ltd, Mrs Pat Taylor and M. Nicholas Jarman, Music Sales Group, Rotary Club of Haverhill and District, STP Stationery, The Herbert Group, VION Sliced Cooked Meats and Wood, Wind and Reed (Cambridge).

Details of the full results are available on the website www.haverhillsinfonia.co.uk.

Drivers put lives at risk without belt

MORE than 170 fixed penalty tickets were issued to people not wearing their seatbelts during a week-long campaign held in September.

Suffolk Police held checks on motorists and their passengers throughout the county in support of the Europe-wide TISPOL seatbelt enforcement campaign running from September 10 to 16.

The campaign coincided with an operation to crack down on lorry drivers who break the law with patrols on the A11, A14 and A12 dual carriageway roads in both Norfolk and Suffolk using an unmarked lorry.

During the campaign, 177 tickets were issued in total, equating to 25.3 per day. Of all the tickets issued, 174 were given in relation to adults not wearing a seatbelt and three in relation to a child, with the recipients incurring a minimum of an instant £60 fine.

Sgt Paul Ward of the Casualty Reduction Team said: "Too many people are putting their lives at risk by not wearing a seatbelt."

"Last year we saw 4 fatalities in Suffolk where the driver or passenger was not wearing a seatbelt and their importance should not be underestimated. Even on the shortest trips and at low speeds wearing a seatbelt vastly reduces the likelihood of being seriously injured or even killed. It is an effortless task that should be part of a routine."

Youngsters' chance to have a say on budgets

STUDENTS will be given a chance to decide what they think money should be spent on in their town.

More than 50 students from Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill will take part in an exercise organised by the ONE Haverhill group, which is leading work on a pilot community budgeting scheme in the town.

Haverhill was chosen by the government as one of just 12 areas across the UK to pilot a new way of giving local communities more say in the way budgets are spent.

The event at Samuel Ward on Wednesday will give young people in the town the chance to express their views and an insight into the decision-making process involved in community budgeting.

Six teams of young people will adopt the role of an agency involved in spending a community budget for Haverhill, including health, police, the council, the voluntary sector and the local business forum.

Each agency will have a priority area that they want to spend money on and a series of budget choices and interventions that have an impact on young people.

It will be up to the teams to produce a community budget between them that has maximum benefit for Haverhill residents at the same time as promoting their priority choices for young people.

In addition, some of the young people will be given the role of researchers during the event, tasked with capturing young people's views on their priorities for Haverhill on video.

The students will also have the opportunity to use hand-held voter technology, a key pad that wirelessly links to a system that captures audience voting responses and displays them in real time, to prioritise what they see as the most important issues and possible solutions for young people in Haverhill.

Anne Gower, chairman of ONE Haverhill, said: "This is a great chance for us to capture what the priorities are of the young people of the town and at the same time help them understand how difficult decision making can be when agencies all have different priorities crucial to their organisations."

"I hope everyone involved on the day, students and expert witnesses, enjoy the process and I look forward very much to hearing what the students have to say about their town and learning about their wish list for our community."

Open day opportunity to try something new

A COLLEGE will be holding an Open House event to give students a chance to try out some of the new classes due to start this month.

West Suffolk College will host the event next Wednesday from 10am until 1pm at its new, specially equipped teaching room in the MENTA Business and Training Centre in Hollands Road, Haverhill.

There will be a demonstration of flower arranging, a chance to taste some authentic Pakistani cooking and to view pottery, mosaics and paintings produced by students.

Elaine Simmons, Leap Centre Coordinator, said: "Everyone is welcome to just drop in and join us for a free cup of coffee and a cake, and see what West Suffolk College has to offer you."

There will also be a chance to meet some of the tutors before enrolling.

For further information call Elaine or Izzy at the Haverhill Leap Centre (01440) 712177, email haverhill@wsc.ac.uk or log on to www.westsuffolk.ac.uk.

Ghoulish goings-on top the bill at half-term

GHOSTS and ghouls, wrestling and monsters in pianos will help keep youngsters amused during their October half-term holiday.

Haverhill Town Council has some fun activities, starting with the return of the popular Halloween Trail at the East Town Park in Coupsals Road on Friday, October 26, when the whole family can go along and find out what spooky surprises are in store. The event, which normally attracts hundreds of visitors, is free and will end this year with a flame filled finale.

On Monday, October 29 at 7.30pm LDN Wrestling will bring to the Arts Centre breath-taking action from the top rope and beyond. See tag team and single bouts featuring top names from the world of wrestling plus the climax to the show, the All-in Rumble. This is fun, family entertainment which the organiser describes as 'sports panto'. Tickets are £12, £10 and a family ticket costing £36.

Garlic Theatre present an offbeat, jazzy tale about the ever-increasing problem of finding monsters in your musical instruments.

There's A Monster in My Piano stars puppets, clowning, animation and a very highly strung monster, as well as the Piano Doctor with his bag full of ears and his collection of weird and wonderful tools. Find out why the musical notes that live inside the piano are packing their bags and running away at the Arts Centre on Tuesday, October 30 at 2pm. Tickets are £5 or £18 for a family ticket.

Cinema at the Arts Centre for half-term includes the family film, The Lorax (2d) on Monday, October 29 at 10.30am, in which the Dr Seuss parable about environmental awareness is brought to vivid life, and Brave (2d) showing on Wednesday, October 31 at 10.30am, which tells the tale of the feisty Merida who unleashes a terrible curse. Tickets for both films are £4.

Ring action: LDN Wrestling will bring their stars to Haverhill Arts Centre on October 29.

Residents are invited to have their say on future of Haverhill

RESIDENTS can have their say at a public forum and give their views on Haverhill's future.

The ONE Haverhill group will hold its meeting on Monday, October 22 and is inviting people to come along and contribute.

It will be the third public forum event that the group has held. The last was staged in April and centred on health services.

More than 100 residents attended and gave their views on out-of-hours GP care and the closure of the Crown Health Centre.

The latest event will take place at Samuel Ward Academy from 6.30pm to 8pm.

Anyone who lives or works in Haverhill and is interested in contributing their views is invited.

Tim Marks, chairman of the ONE Haverhill Public Forum, said: "This is the opportunity for Haverhill people to contribute to the running of local services which affect their quality of life. It is the intention of the ONE Haverhill Board to concentrate on those services which residents consider most important to them and it is important that the public voice their concerns and aspirations for Haverhill at the Public Forum."

ONE Haverhill is an independent board that has brought organisations and resources together to make them more effective and efficient in the town.

Members of the board include representatives from all three tiers of local government, the business sector, education, the police, health and the voluntary sector, Havebury Housing, Abbeycroft Leisure and the faith community with one aim – improving the quality of life for people in Haverhill.

Members of the public who require transport can contact Three Counties transport on (01440) 712028 to pre-book with two days' notice.

Police attacked over travellers

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

RESIDENTS have hit out at police over a site near their homes which was recently occupied by travellers.

Mark Dorey said although travellers had now left the site next to a children's playground off Bergamot Road, Haverhill, residents feared they may well return.

He and his neighbours felt that the lack of adequate physical measures to stop them entering the site, along with lack of police presence while they were present, made illegal encampments more likely.

Mr Dorey said: "I understand that the police actually followed them here after moving them on from elsewhere. Why didn't they stop them moving on here again?"

"Some people witnessed them pulling up the fencing but no action was taken by the police. I phoned the police at about 10pm, and was told they have to follow a protocol and it is up to the council to remove them.

"Last time they were here I phoned the police at 3am because they were having a loud party, but no-one came.

"If it was someone in a house

No complaints: Insp Peter Ferrie.

making a noise like that they would go round, so why is it when it comes to the travellers the police stop policing?"

Mr Dorey added: "We all have to pay for the cost of clearing up every time they move on. The liaison officer has been to visit us and we understand measures are planned to stop them getting on there again. We just want to make sure that just because the travellers have gone, the problem is not just forgotten about."

Inspector Peter Ferrie of Haverhill Police said he had received no complaint of criminal damage caused by the travellers and was not aware of officers following the travellers on to the site, but added that a police presence had been maintained during the recent occupation.

A spokesman for St Edmundsbury Borough Council said: "Bergamot Road Open Space has been targeted by a family of travellers on three separate occasions over the past two years.

"The latest encampment was removed on September 13 following the serving of a court order and we immediately reinstated the old fence in front of a new ditch to prevent the public from falling into it.

"The borough is fortunate to have lots of public open/green spaces such as the one in Bergamot Road and a high proportion of these areas do not have vehicular access deterrents around their boundary.

"Because this particular open space has been targeted so frequently, the borough council will now install more robust deterrents around its boundary over next three months, subject to consultation with the police, neighbouring residents and local neighbourhood watch."

Consultation has started on draft

Sir, Re: Draft Supplementary Planning Document – Open Space, Sport and Recreation Facilities. New development often creates a need for additional open space and facilities for sport and recreation without which there could be a detrimental effect on local amenity and the quality of the environment. Where new development occurs, it is important that sufficient sport, recreation and open space provision is made to make proposals acceptable in land use planning terms. Planning obligations are the mechanism by which measures are secured to achieve these aims. A planning obligation is a legally binding agreement entered between a local authority and a developer to carry out certain works, or to provide, or contribute towards the provision of measures to ensure that it benefits the communities within which it is situated. This draft Supplementary Planning Document (SPD) sets out the council's approach to the provision of open space, sport and recreation facilities in conjunction with new housing development. The guidance has been prepared to give developers and the public up-to-date information on developer contributions which are

Reunion appeal is success for Michael

TWO old friends are to be reunited after a gap of more than 50 years – thanks to an appeal in the Weekly News.

Last week we published a picture supplied by Michael Barker of Framlingham, now 73, who was trying to track down Peter Mayes.

The pair met while doing their national service 52 years ago, training as drivers together in Wales before serving in Germany as drivers on NATO training exercises.

They parted at Ipswich Station in 1960, with Mr Barker returning to his job as a tractor driver, and all he knew about his former pal was that he used to live in Barnardiston.

Mr Barker received a call on the day after the paper was published from Peter's wife, to say that he lives in Ash Grove, Haverhill, and would like to meet up again.

Mr Barker said: "My son lives in Arrendene Road, which is only about 10 minutes walk from him.

"His wife said he was pleased to hear from me after all these years, so hopefully we will be able to meet up again soon.

"He is recovering from cancer treatment, so I hope to be able to cheer him up a bit. I could not believe I found him so quickly after all those years."

West Wickham

WEST Wickham and District Local History Club will begin their autumn programme of talks on Monday at 7.30pm in the Village Hall with The King visits the village – the 1912 Army Manoeuvres.

Please go along and find out about when the Red Army fought the Blue Army, the Roman Road became the front line and of course, the visit of George V. Everyone welcome – there is a small charge of £1.50 for non-members. Further details from the secretary, Janet Morris, 21 High Street. Tel: 290863 Email: jmmorris@jmmorris.plus.com.

■ WEST Wickham and District Gardening Club Annual Show: Regrettably this year's show was disappointing, with the number of exhibits down in all categories except cut flowers.

Most disappointing of all, there were no entries in the children's classes. However, the quality of the exhibits was excellent and there were some first time exhibitors.

The cup and trophy winners were: The West Wrattling Cup for Vegetables and Fruit – Rosemary Yallop; The White Horse Trophy for Flowers – Rosemary Yallop; The West Wickham Rose Bowl for Flower Arranging – Sue Thurston; The Stan and Hilda Cox Cup for Domestic classes – Janet Morris; The Ralph Westwood-Bate Photography Cup – Simon Blackwell; The Bill Pearson Cup for the most points won in show was won by Rosemary Yallop with Simon Blackwell and Janet Morris runners up.

The RHS Banksian Medal was won by Rosemary Yallop. The organisers are not downcast by this year's show after the weather made it very difficult for gardeners. Next year the club will be celebrating its 30th show and would welcome ideas to make this a very special event.

West Wrattling

AS part of the programme of fundraising for St Andrew's Church there will be an autumn concert in Holy Trinity Church, Balsham at 7.30pm on Saturday, with music from around the world. Tickets cost £10, with children going free, and are available from Balsham Post Office or Michael Gorman on (01223) 290653. This will include refreshments.

The choir will sing with the Barnardiston Hall Prep School choir, with soloists from West Wrattling and Brinkley, in a programme of choral music and instrumental music for flute, violin and organ. Contact organisers Michael and Linda Gorman and Jeanette Job on (01223) 290706. It is hoped that this annual concert will be held in West Wrattling next year with the repaired organ.

Haverhill

MEG Browne came to the September meeting of the Haverhill Owls W.I. and showed members her collection of beautiful patchwork quilts. She explained the difference between American and English quilts. American ones differ in the limited use of card as templates as paper was scarce in the new colonies.

Meg's oldest quilts are 120 years old and still look fresh and very usable in the modern home. Most are stitched by hand, including the tiny quilting stitches. Meg also showed cushions, wallhangings and even waistcoats made of patchwork.

She is also an expert at making her own quilts. Anyone interested in joining the group can come along and meet members on the 3rd Wednesday of each month. The next meeting is at 7.30pm on Wednesday, October 17 at the Arts Centre when the Air Ambulance team is giving a talk.

The group is also holding a jumble sale on Saturday, October 20 at Haverhill Library, starting at 10am.

Patient hits out over service

A WOMAN who spent four days in hospital on a drip believes her stay could have been avoided if she had been able to see a doctor sooner.

Pat Pearce, 72, of Rectory Road, Kedington, suffers from diverticulitis and contacted her doctor on a Thursday when she started to feel unwell. She was offered an appointment a week later.

She said: "I did not do anything at the time because it was not that urgent, but by Sunday I was feeling really unwell. I phoned the surgery and it said there was no out-of-hours doctor's service in Haverhill and to contact NHS Direct, which we did. They were brilliant and called back three times. They said there was no base in Haverhill, so could I go to Bury at 8.30pm. My husband took me there and they took one look at me and called surgeon to admit me. They said I needed to be given strong antibiotics intravenously as I was too far gone by then for oral ones."

"I had asked what I should do if it got worse before 8.30pm and they said call an ambulance. What would I have done if my husband had not been there to take me? The chances are this is happening to other people, too. Surely it would cost the NHS far more if I had to call an ambulance and for me to be in hospital for four days. I cannot believe that town the size of Haverhill has not got an out-of-hours doctor."

"Last time I was ill like this Dr Cornish came to the house and said why didn't I ring the surgery as there was an out-of-hours service. So this time we did that, but there was no service in the town at all. If I had seen a doctor on Wednesday or Thursday, I could probably have been given oral antibiotics and not had to go to hospital."

At a public meeting in Haverhill earlier this year, amid protests about the plan to close the popular walk-in Crown Health Centre in Haverhill, Dr David Lee of Harmoni, the group which provides the out-of-hours doctor's service for Suffolk said it was likely that the Haverhill base would re-open following the closure.

Death sparks call for care upgrade

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

CALLS have been made for a town's health cover to be improved following the death of a man who was sent home to wait three hours for an emergency appointment.

Popular taxi firm controller Richard 'Dusty' White was found dead at his home when colleagues went to take him back to his doctor's surgery for the appointment.

Haverhill town clerk Will Austin has written to Suffolk Primary Care Trust about the incident. Only a week before, he had reported to them the case of a woman who ended up in hospital for four days receiving intravenous antibiotics, after being unable to get a GP's appointment or see an out-of-hours doctor in the town who might have given her oral antibiotics.

Haverhill Town Council campaigned against the closure of the town's popular Crown Health Centre in July and called for more provision for the town to replace it.

But despite a suggestion by Dr David Lee from out-of-hours provider Harmoni that Haverhill's out-of-hours doctor's base would be manned once the centre closed, this has not yet happened. A statement issued by NHS Suffolk this week suggests that it considers current levels of health provision in the town are adequate.

In a letter to Martin Royal of Suffolk PCT and Dr Ed Garratt of the new Clinical Commissioning Group, which takes over the PCT's role next April, Mr Austin wrote of the death of Mr White:

"Clearly the circumstances need investigating, but it will add to a sense that the town lacks some vital support in serious cases. Whatever the rights and wrongs of the closure of the Crown Health Centre, it does seem on the face of it that at very least this man might have been spared dying alone had it been available."

Dr Andrew Hassan, NHS Suffolk's medical director said: "We would like to offer our deepest sympathy to the family, friends and colleagues of the patient. We shall investigate to identify whether any lessons from this tragic incident can be learned."

Pet owners support health quest

FRIENDLY dogs and their owners are set to attend an awareness day to mark World Mental Health Day.

Haverhill Volunteer Centre and the local Voluntary and Statutory Partnership group hope to raise awareness of mental health during the event at Haverhill Library tomorrow between 11am and 2pm.

There will be representatives from Workwise, Shaw Trust, Age UK and local agencies who work with mental health issues. Also present will be two representatives from the PAT Dogs (Pets As Therapy) group, whose members take their friendly dogs to various groups, and hospitals, where they comfort the elderly or people with mental health issues.

Anyone who would like to meet the PAT dogs and members of the local VASP group should go to the library between 11am and 2pm.

Exhibition shows off material gains

A GROUP of textile enthusiasts are celebrating the success of their first exhibition.

The Stitch Skills Swap Shop's (4S) held its event at the Edmunds Gallery on Angel Hill, Bury St Edmunds, part of the Cathedral 12, by kind permission of the Dean and Chapter, last weekend.

It was a great success – with sales of work made even during the preview and plans confirmed for the next event in 2014 to be twice the size.

The group seeks to practise, promote, preserve and pass on precious stitch and textile skills.

It is a small group of amateur embroidery and textile craft enthusiasts from across East Anglia, who meet regularly to develop and share their skills and learn new techniques.

The exhibition showcased examples of the group's stunning, intricate and painstaking work including hand and machine embroidery, fabric manipulation, canvas work and silk paper and beads. The group had also dyed and painted fabrics, made and altered books and created fascinators and Diva dolls.

The centrepiece of the exhibition at the cathedral was a display of pockets and tags, the patterns of which have been inspired by the work of Jan Messant and feature design elements from the cathedral.

Founder and group leader, Linda Walker, from Haverhill said:

"Everything we had on display attracted a lot of interest and our members are really encouraged by the response from visitors."

"Next time – in 2014 – we will definitely need to have more exhibits for sale. We have so far kept our numbers limited because of the equipment and space we have at our meeting venue – and we do have a waiting list for membership, but these ladies can come as visitors."

The group meets weekly in Chevington Village Hall and its activities are recorded on its blog www.4ssswapshop.com.

Scheme set to aid small firms

SMALL businesses can now use household waste recycling centres across Suffolk.

Following a successful trial at two centres, the scheme has been rolled out to all 11 sites which are run by recycling and renewable energy company FCC Environment on behalf of Suffolk County Council, including the one at Coupals Road, Haverhill.

The scheme is specifically targeted at small businesses and travelling tradesmen who may not have the resource or the volume of waste to justify a commercial collection.

Heidi Greener, recycling and education officer at FCC

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Environment said: "Opening these sites to the trade gives businesses the opportunity to maximise the amount they recycle and reuse."

"It provides them with a more environmentally sustainable solution for their waste which helps them fulfil their legal duty of care when it comes to disposing of waste."

The service is also being adapted to allow a larger range of materials to be recycled and reused, such as furniture, hard plastics and textiles, whilst height barriers will be removed to allow high vehicles in the site. Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for environment and property management, Lisa Chambers, said: "This is a positive step forward in improving waste management options for businesses in Suffolk."

"We are keen to encourage more recycling of business waste which currently stands at 25 per cent to over 80 per cent for household waste through the HWRC network."

Full details including the latest prices, conditions and duty of care information are available at www.greensuffolk.org/recycling/HWRCtrade.

Young volunteers will get extra support

CASH from the Comic Relief Fund will allow more people to receive first aid training.

Haverhill Volunteer Centre has received the funding and will use it to support volunteers between the age of 16 and 25 by being offered free training.

Accredited courses have been arranged in Haverhill, including basic first aid on October 27, health and safety on November 3 and autism awareness on November. Other courses to be arranged for the New Year.

This project aims to encourage young people to get involved in their community.

They will be offered the opportunity to gain new skills, qualifications and a recent reference if applying for work.

Contact the Volunteer Centre if you would like to attend or get involved in volunteering in the community on (01440) 708444 or info@hvc.org.uk.

Society friends enjoy the focus at festival

A GROUP of friends from an amateur dramatic society found themselves at the centre of attention when they attended a Jane Austen Festival in period costume.

The members of the Castle Camps Amateur Theatrical Society went along to the event in Bath and found themselves surrounded by people wanting to take their picture. A photo of them even ended up in a national paper in Norway.

Jo Bishop, who works as a receptionist at the Weekly News office in Haverhill, said: "People just pounced on us and kept wanting to take our picture. The tourists just would not let us move, I think they thought we were part of the event.

"Because we are all part of the amateur dramatic group we don't mind dressing up and enjoy doing it.

"It was held in a park with all sorts of events going on, including a parade of characters. It was the first time we had been and we had a wonderful time."

Apply now to make impact

A SECOND chance is being offered to groups to apply for grants.

Organisations can apply for up to £5,000 from a special grant pot, made available to the ONE Haverhill group by St Edmundsbury Borough Council, with a deadline for applications of Monday.

The first round of community grants were awarded earlier this year to a wide range of groups benefitting the young, elderly and disadvantaged, with 23 applications received.

Applications will be considered by ONE Haverhill from groups which meet a minimum of three key criteria. They must also demonstrate that the funding will make a real difference to the people of Haverhill, have clear objectives and plans for the project and how they will measure its effectiveness.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Anne Gower, chair of One Haverhill said: "We are really looking forward to seeing what projects in Haverhill need support and how they will benefit people in our town.

"There were applications from some wonderful projects and organisations earlier this year and we had some tough decisions to make.

"I would urge all groups who think they have a project that fits the criteria to get in touch and apply for funding. You don't know until you try and we would be very pleased to answer any questions you may have."

Application forms and criteria can be downloaded from the ONE Haverhill website at www.onehaverhill.co.uk. Previous applicants can apply.

Completed application forms should be sent to ONE Haverhill Grants Scheme, c/o Haverhill Arts Centre, High Street, Haverhill CB9 8AR.

To discuss an application before submitting it, call Nick Keeble or Will Austin on (01440) 712858 or email grants@onehaverhill.co.uk.

Site copes with traffic

MAKERS of a special bag for children who successfully bid for cash on television show Dragons Den got a helping hand in dealing with the flood of enquiries this prompted from a Haverhill-based website development and internet marketing company.

YUUworld from Dummow agreed to accept a £60,000 joint investment from Peter Jones and Deborah Meaden in exchange for a 30 per cent stake in their company.

Phoenix Internet Consultancy Ltd of Haverhill has been working with the company for some time. The website it developed was able to cope with the huge increase in traffic resulting from being on the show, even though the dragons had warned that they should expect the site to 'crash'.

Car attacked

TYRES were pierced on a car outside a house at Strawberry Fields, Haverhill. The incident happened between 11pm on Wednesday, September 26 and 7.10am the following morning. One front and one back tyre of the Peugeot 307 were damaged. Calls with information can be made to PC Rebecca Molisso on 101.

School sets up its cafe society

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PUPILS became cooks, waiters and managers as a new community café opened at a school.

The café at Coupals Primary School in Haverhill has been set up as a Young Peoples Enterprise Project, in conjunction with various local businesses and the school's own Let's Get Cooking programme. The café will be open from 2.30pm-4pm on the last Thursday of each month, providing families with a chance to meet for a chat.

Enterprising parents who would like to display their wares for sale can do so for a modest fee.

It is also planned to invite speakers along in future.

Head teacher Charles Hardingham said: "This project will be self-funding and there will be realistic charges made for purchases. We hope over the terms to improve and build on

How writing is keeping me out of the darkness

Fighting back: Peter Dean can smile again after the lowest point in his life.

Picture: 860938

Peter Dean, 49, has had schizophrenia and depression for many years. At his lowest point, he tried to kill himself by drinking weed killer and swallowing every pill in the house. But with the right medication – and after finding an outlet in creative writing – he is managing to control it. He tells his story.

PERHAPS I was always going to be susceptible to mental illness, as my mother suffered from schizophrenia and depression during her lifetime. She was very ill, very frail and nervous, and frightened even of going in the car.

Growing up in Shelford, the middle of three boys, some of my earliest memories are of visiting mum at the psychiatric hospital in Fulbourn. They had a billiard table there, and I can remember being about 5, throwing the billiard balls around with my brothers.

My dad never really spoke to us about it. I knew mum was in hospital, but I didn't know what she had, or what it entailed, until I was in my teens – and even then I didn't really know what schizophrenia was. People always associate it with murderers, but mum wasn't like that – she wouldn't hurt anybody, apart from herself. Her treatment included electric shock therapy, something

I'm glad I never had to have.

My first experience of depression was in the 1980s, when I was in my 20s. I was a researcher for a company that was developing evening primrose for the medical market, and I'd been working incredibly hard.

It all became too much: I'd go to the pub at lunchtime and have a couple of drinks just to cope. Eventually I lost my job, and following that I had a nervous breakdown. But I went to Mind in Chelmsford, where I lived at the time, for help – and they were very good at supporting me and giving me advice.

The onset of schizophrenia happened 10 years later. I was working hard, and also studying in the evenings. Again, it all became too much: the over-exertion, lack of sleep and general tiredness caused me to hear psychotic voices in my head.

I remember thinking that the radio and television were talking to me directly. Once I heard an interview with Sting, the musician, and thought he was talking to me one-to-one.

Over time, the voices told me I was insignificant and useless – and that I should kill myself. As with my mum, during my illness I never wanted to harm anyone apart from myself. And this is what I attempted.

One night, I took a bottle of garden weed killer and drank some of it. I then hunted down and ate any pills in the house I could find. I don't know if I truly meant to kill myself – I think it was a cry for help, but I didn't really know what I was doing.

At the time I was living with my dad, and he found me. I told him what I'd done and he rushed me to Addenbrooke's, where they pumped my stomach.

I was lucky that I survived.

From there I was sent to Fulbourn, the same hospital where my mum had spent so much time during my childhood. I was allowed to rest and was prescribed chlorpromazine, a drug that makes you sleep and eliminates the voices. I seem to have been drowsy for the three months I spent in hospital.

When I was getting better, near to Christmas in 1995, I was allowed to go for walks around the hospital grounds. But although the voices had gone, I was still ill and depressed.

One day I went to Cherry Hinton pharmacy and bought some aspirin and, when I got back to the hospital, ate all the pills from the packet. Later that evening I had to go and get medication from the hospital staff, but I couldn't walk or stand up properly – they thought I was drunk, and sent me to bed. That was the lowest ebb of my hospitalisation.

After I was discharged, at the end of 1995, my medication was changed to a Depixol depot jab, once a month. Thankfully this has meant that, as far as schizophrenia is concerned, I've been fine ever since.

Feeling like a new person, I decided to go back to studying and did a degree in biological sciences at what's now Anglia Ruskin University, graduating in 2001.

It was quite an achievement for me: I was a mature student and found studying hard work, but I enjoyed mixing with other students of all ages. We went on field trips to nature reserves and the coast to see seals and bird colonies. I enjoyed it all.

I soon found work but, when my mother died of pneumonia in 2004, I had another bout of depression that caused me to leave my job. I found I just couldn't go to work: I'd get in the car and drive there, but then have to come home. On one occasion I spent the whole morning just sitting in a field in Grantchester Meadows. All I could think was 'I can't do this'. It was a black wall.

Again I sought help: I had counselling and was prescribed anti-depressants. But I didn't like the pills and didn't take them for long. Instead, I took up creative writing as a therapy. I went to writing classes and started to compose poems and stories.

Since childhood, I've always loved writing. I was good at history at school, and came top of the class for my essays. For English I only got a C, but I did enjoy writing creatively.

To begin with, I wrote about mum and the family, but from there I've written all sorts of things – things that I didn't even think I knew anything about, but that were in my head somewhere. What was my therapy soon became my hobby.

My self-esteem was at rock bottom, but when I managed to get some poems published in the Cambridge News Poetry Corner, I gradually became more and more secure in myself. It was great.

I have now had more than a hundred poems published in the News. And slowly, over a matter of years, my self-esteem has returned and my depression has lifted. I guess I didn't suffer from a chronic bipolar condition: maybe it was just grief?

As well as the poetry, I have had short stories published in Dream Catcher, Take a Break and Dandelion Arts Magazine.

I have also written for the web, and had my film reviews featured on a local Cambridge website.

Today, I live with my dad, who's 80, and I lead a normal life. I have a job as an examination marker and, although I work hard, I know my limits. Luckily, I am no longer afflicted with psychotic voices: I go to my GP for my jab once a month, and I write down ideas for poems, stories and other projects as they occur to me.

I can now talk openly about my experiences of mental illness, and it's not all bad news.

There can be light at the end of the tunnel, and drugs are only part of the answer: for someone in a similar situation, I'd definitely recommend doing a creative art – whether it's pottery, painting or even gardening. It's so good to have something else as a focus.

Looking to the future, I hope to get more stories published, along with other poetry and articles. I don't think I'll make much money – if any – from writing, but it is something I enjoy and it keeps me sane.

It has been my Godsend.

John pushes care message to Clegg

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGN to improve treatment for prostate cancer sufferers has reached Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg.

John Snell, a former employee of IFF in Haverhill who made a successful recovery from the illness, travelled to the recent Liberal Democrat Party conference in Brighton with members of Prostate Cancer UK.

The campaigner met Liberal Democrats and called on them to back the group's Quality Checklist: Your Standards of Care.

The list outlines what support men with prostate cancer should expect to receive from the health service through every step of their treatment.

Mr Snell, who lives at Ixworth, said: "It was great that so many MPs showed support for the initiative. I also very much enjoyed having the opportunity to meet Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg."

The Quality Checklist was developed following wide-ranging consultation and was produced because surveys showed that, despite recent improvements in treatments, there are wide regional variations in the care that prostate cancer sufferers receive.

Dr Sarah Cant, director of policy and campaigns at Prostate Cancer UK, said: "It is unacceptable that the quality of support experienced by men with prostate cancer varies across the country.

"In order to address this we hope that our Quality Checklist is widely adopted. Men with prostate cancer deserve the best and we're absolutely determined that's exactly what they are going to get."

The latest edition to New England Supplies is new business "Clothes & Collectables". Set up by Veronica Wilkins, there were two events that inspired the conception of the business. The first were a few disappointments when buying some pre-loved items online. They just were not quite how they were described and she wished that she could have seen the goods first. The second was when a friend said that she had a box of bits and pieces that she didn't know what to do with because she felt that they were too good to donate to a charity shop and that she would like a little something for them. And that was it. From there was born "Clothes & Collectables".

Clothes & collectables is a shop where you can view before you buy and also a chance to make a little bit from those expensive items that have been hiding in the wardrobe or at the back of a cupboard and there is no need to package and post it or arrange for people to come round your house to collect.

There is already a great selection of items for sale that have been pre-owned so go along to the shop located within New England Supplies that used to be the old garden centre just outside Sturmer to browse all the lovely items. Or you can have a look on the website at www.clothescollectables.co.uk

Veronica adds, "we hope to see you in the shop, whether you are bringing in some gorgeous items to sell or browsing for something special".

The shop will be open every Tuesday- Saturday from 10:30am – 3:30pm.

Language skills meet art

LANGUAGE students took part in a European Day of Languages event which could see their designs used on greetings cards. Pupils from Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill took part in the national competition by choosing a word they could translate into a foreign language and illustrating it by hand in any form they liked. The winning entries will be made into greetings cards for Routes into Languages. There are two categories – Years 7 to 9 and Years 10 and 11. There will be prizes of £50 WH Smith vouchers for each category winner, donated by Routes into Languages, with winners notified later this month.

Michelle Moden, Samuel Ward's head of modern foreign languages, said: "This linguistic challenge put students' knowledge of vocabulary to the test as they had to think creatively to put a word from English into another world language, then find an imaginative means of illustrating this – fantastic work from our talented linguists."

Spot the difference.

Coffee pots boil up grand total for cancer research

TRADERS and senior citizens were among those brewing up a storm as they took part in the World's Biggest Coffee Morning in aid of Macmillan Cancer Support.

Traders in Queens Square, Haverhill, set out tables and chair to serve drinks and cakes to shoppers in the town – complete with a tarpaulin cover to keep the rain away.

At the Meadows Care Home in Brybank Road, Haverhill, residents in their 80s and 90s helped staff to welcome visitors along for a drink and a chat. Matthew Hancock, the town's MP, joined coffee drinkers at Barclays Bank in the High Street and there was another event at the Cheeky Chimps children's play centre in Boundary Road.

Catering students and members of the Young Chamber joined forces to bake cakes and sell them at a very successful coffee morning at Castle Manor Academy, which raised more than £200 for the charity.

Visitors were invited in to sample the cakes, which were also sold at lunchtime and on a stall at Place Farm Primary Academy for parents at the end of the day.

A second annual event was held at the Royal British Legion Hall at Kedington, which raised a bumper £1,134 for the cause.

It was organised by Hazel Mynott and Linda Claydon, who held their first event last year in memory of their friend, Anita Deeks.

Hazel said: "We did it last year and it went so well we felt we had to do it again. We have already started collecting again for next year. It is a lot of work because we are given a lot of stuff and I store it in my loft."

We're talking revolution

SEAN O'Casey's final instalment of the Dublin Trilogy, The Plough and the Stars, is being brought to Cambridge Arts Theatre this autumn by Ireland's national theatre, the Abbey Theatre, as a part of a limited Irish and UK tour.

It follows the residents of a Dublin tenement shelter and the violence that sweeps through the city's streets. On the eve of the 1916 Easter Rising, Jack and Nora Clitheroe are "like two turtle doves, always billing and cooing", much to the ridicule of their bustling neighbours.

However, their relationship is put to the test when Jack is called to fight for his country. This will be a revolution that will shape a country's future but what kind of Ireland awaits them? Regarded as Ireland's most famous playwright, O'Casey is considered as the first to write about the working class.

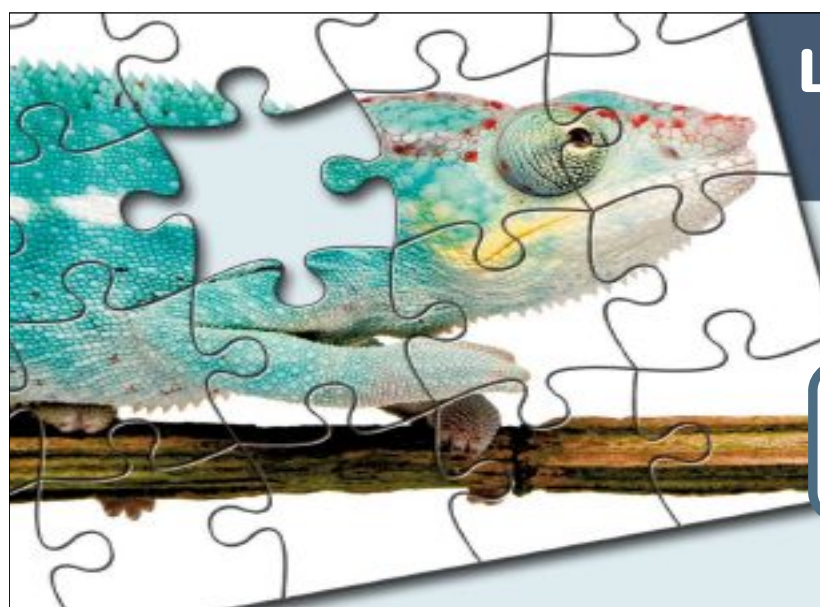

As a communist, O'Casey left his job as a labourer to write numerous plays about the revolution of Ireland. In 1926, O'Casey's masterpiece The Plough and the Stars premiered at the Abbey Theatre amid riots and complaints from audiences who rejected its interpretation of recent history. Since then, the play has become a classic of the Irish drama repertoire and this Abbey Theatre revival follows a successful 2010 production directed by Wayne Jordan.

Heralded as a theatre at the forefront of Irish drama, the Abbey Theatre has played a vital and often controversial role in the literary, social and cultural life of Ireland.

■ The Plough and the Stars, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until October 6 at 7.45pm. Tickets from £15 from (01223) 503333/www.cambridgeartstheatre.com.

Turning Japanese

THE beauty and poetry of the snowbound landscapes and pastimes of Japan are being explored at the Fitzwilliam Museum in Cambridge in an exhibition of stunning woodblock prints which is sure to get you excited about the coming of our own winter.

With snow a regular feature of life in Japan – where winds from Siberia blow clouds onto the central mountain ranges, resulting in half the country turning white each winter – Japanese artists have long responded to the beauty of a world changed by frozen forms and stilled by a blanket of snow.

This selection of prints by artists such as Hokusai and Hiroshige includes stories from poetry and myth of journeys, ambushes and skirmishes in the snow, children throwing snowballs and building snow-rabbits and the stillness of people indoors gazing out at the unbroken spell of freshly frozen snow.

As well as providing inspiration for literature and art, the long, cold months also offer the ideal time to create it. The very whiteness of the paper in the exhibition – which creates the purity of the snow in the images – was created by snowmelt, when mulberry fibres were bleached in the mountains of Snow Country.

Snow Country is also famously the title of a wonderfully poetic novel and short story by Yasunari Kawabata (the first Japanese writer to win the Nobel prize for literature in 1968).

■ Snow Country: Woodcuts of the Japanese Winter, Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, until January 13. Open 10am-5pm (from noon Sundays). Contact (01223) 332900.

SNOW IN THE LAND OF THE RISING SUN: a selection of prints by artists including Hokusai and Hiroshige await visitors to the Fitzwilliam Museum in an exhibition that runs until January.

■ RIZZLE KICKS: Nov 20, Corn Exchange
THE MOBO-nominated duo (they've been up for three, no less) are one of the hottest acts in hip-hop right now, bringing back that old school style of music from the late 80s and early 90s. Their debut single Down With The Trumpets sold more than 250,000 copies and stayed in the top 10 for a month, and who hasn't heard their catchy (a good or a bad thing... you decide...) Mama Do The Hump? They've sold more than a million singles already.

■ HUMAN LEAGUE: Nov 25, Corn Exchange
THEY infected the 80s with a love of synth, using pioneering new technology to create their catchy, upbeat numbers, and now The Human League are treating us to more electro-pop perfection courtesy of their new album, Credo. Formed out of the Sheffield club scene, the band comprises Joanne Catherall, Susan Ann Sulley and founding member Philip Oakey, who spotted the two girls on a dancefloor one night when he was out looking for new members.

The chance meeting has certainly paid off, and they're still going strong decades after hits Don't You Want Me and Human.

■ ADAM ANT: Nov 28, Corn Exchange
AFTER wowing crowds with his comeback gig last year, the Prince Charming of post-punk is back in town to play more classic hits from his eclectic back catalogue, and newer offerings too.

The Adam and the Ants frontman scored 10 UK top 10 hits in just three years between 1980 and 1983 with the likes of Goody Two Shoes, Stand and Deliver and Antmusic. In 2010 he reactivated his musical career with a string of live performances in London then further afield, completing two full-scale UK tours and scheduling another for America.

I don't believe we've met

AFTER winning over Edinburgh audiences at this summer's Festival Fringe, and on their US tour of New York, Boston and Chicago, Cambridge Footlights bring their current show, Perfect Strangers, back home to Cambridge for a run at the ADC next week. With humour ranging from the surreal to the macabre via the odd spot of slapstick, this sketch show stars five of the company's most talented student performers: Pierre Novellie, Phil Wang, George Potts, Emma Powell and Jason Forbes.

ThreeWeeks said: "Perfect Strangers tackles all styles, from satire to slapstick and everything in between, and despite no clear link between sketches, the show progresses seamlessly by using a repeated formula: building expectations and then smashing them."

Famous for producing comedy shows of the highest standard for a staggering 129 years, Footlights is somewhat of a British institution and regularly sells out at some of the biggest comedy festivals.

See what today's band of performers have in store – and keep an eye out for them in years to come!

The big film

certificate 12A, 1h 30m

YOU'RE never too old in Hollywood for a big screen renaissance.

At the tender age of 56, Irish actor Liam Neeson unexpectedly reinvigorated his career as a tough-talking action man in the testosterone-fuelled thriller Taken.

It was a film that gained a cult following for its wanton brutality, outrageous set pieces and the unstinting determination of the lead character, who famously promised kidnappers holding his daughter: "I will find you, and I will kill you."

True to his word, former CIA field operative Bryan Mills punched, kicked and shot every bad guy within a 10-mile radius of Paris.

Now the 'old' man with the fists of fury returns in Taken 2, which dispatches the same characters to Istanbul for another explosive game of cat and mouse.

Mills (Neeson) continues to be protective of his daughter Kim (Maggie Grace), who he rescued from Albanian kidnappers and returned home safely to her mother Lenore (Famke Janssen).

When Lenore's current partner storms out, Bryan suggests his ex-wife and daughter join him in Turkey for a few days of sight-seeing and relaxation.

But little does the former agent realise that Murad (Rade Serbedzija), the father of one of the Albanian brutes he killed in the first film, has amassed a small army to abduct and torture Bryan and his loved ones.

Director Olivier Megaton delivers more slam-bang thrills than the first instalment, embracing the preposterousness of a centrepiece car sequence which sees the hero's daughter, who has failed her driving test, perform high-speed manoeuvres through the winding streets of the bustling Turkish metropolis.

Taken 2 is a film that doesn't take itself seriously, from the protracted set-up about Kim's inability to parallel park to her transformation into a gun-toting chip off the old block.

Neeson growls his lines with suitable menace, physically suffering for his low-brow art as he is beaten to a bloody pulp while protecting his loved ones.

Blazing the trail for autumn

ARICH tapestry of colour should be enveloping our landscape over the next few weeks as leaves turn golden, orange and even red, thanks to a massive growth of foliage during the wet summer followed by cold nights.

The trees and other plants which will be providing us with magnificent hues include the maple and Japanese maple, native oak trees, Nyssa sinensis and Parrotia persica (Persian ironwood). The winter-flowering cherry, stag's horn sumach, sorbus (wild mountain ash) and varieties of cornus can also paint a palette of vivid colours.

Following a wet summer, the recent warm weather has resulted in the production of lots of chlorophyll and increased sugar levels in trees. When the night-time temperature falls, it sends a message to the tree to stop growing and then the leaves will start turning, breaking down the chlorophyll to reveal autumnal pigments in shades of red, orange and yellow.

Venturing out on autumn walks may give you inspiration to grow some colourful specimens in your own garden. Maple, vine and mahonia leaves offer shades of red, while sedum flowerheads provide subtle russet tones which will stay on the plant well into winter.

In larger gardens use trees carefully so that their rich hues are a highlight rather than just a small part of an extremely busy planting scheme. Keep green as your main colour in the garden, as if you cram it with coloured foliage it can be far from restful.

Some trees take on more refined, subtle shades, such as yellow birch (Betula alleghaniensis) with its beautiful buttery yellow foliage, or the common beech (Fagus sylvatica), which turns a glorious shade of copper.

If you are going to plant a maple, avoid planting it in windy, exposed sites as its fragile leaves will be shredded. The best time to plant is autumn, when the soil is still warm, to give the trees time to establish before winter sets in.

Maples thrive in well-drained soil enriched with some well-rotted garden compost and will do well in full sun or dappled shade, and are ideal growing in the gentle shade of larger trees, provided their planting hole isn't completely swamped with the roots of the larger specimen. Dig in leafmould to give the tree a boost. They shouldn't need much pruning, just snip out any dead shoot tips as the buds begin to open in spring.

Here are five of the best trees which you shouldn't be without in autumn:

■ Cornus kousa 'Satom': This amazing flowering dogwood offers something for every season. In autumn the leaves turn fiery red and orange, while large, deep-pink, star-shaped bracts appear in late spring. It also bears strawberry-like fruits in late summer that continue into winter.

■ Nyssa sinensis: The deciduous leaves on the Chinese tupelo provide a wide array of autumn colours, from mellow yellows to fiery reds. It thrives in acid soil and you'll need to give it plenty of room as it grows up to 10m (30ft) in height and width.

■ Sorbus x 'Joseph Rock': This popular small tree was introduced to the west after it was found in China in the early 20th century by the famed plant hunter, Joseph Rock. This Chinese mountain ash has cool green, feather-like leaves which turn fabulous shades of blood red in autumn before falling. Its stunning autumn colour is complimented by large clusters of bright yellow fruit.

■ Euonymus europaeus 'Red Cascade': Seen either as a shrub or trained as a small tree, this form of our native hedgerow spindle boasts a combination of bright red autumn foliage, turning purple as it ages, which colours at the same time as its generous crops of red and orange fruits. It's an adaptable plant, happy in most reasonable soils in sun or light shade and growing to 3m (10ft).

■ Katsura (Cercidiphyllum japonicum): The heart-shaped green leaves of this dainty woodland tree turn to rich colours of yellow, orange and red leaves in autumn and produce the sweet scent of caramel or candyfloss as they fall. This tree, which works well as a stand-alone specimen, should be planted in soil enriched with organic matter in a sheltered spot, as the coppery young leaves are prone to spring frost damage.

Your Homesnow Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Homesnow team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

www.homesnow.co.uk

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ☐ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ☐ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ☐ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

Notify:

- ☐ Employer
- ☐ Inland revenue
- ☐ Local council
- ☐ Banks or Building Societies

- ☐ TV Licensing

1 WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Delivery address – change delivery address of your Cambridge News, milk, groceries and fuel to your new address as appropriate.
- ☐ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?

- ☐ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.

- ☐ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

- ☐ Valuables / documents – put these in safe place for moving day

4 2-1 DAYS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – pack a bag for overnight essentials and toiletries and finish all remaining packing into boxes. Remember to label which room each box is destined for.

- ☐ Snack box – pack a box for the kitchen to include essentials like tea, coffee and sugar, as well as the kettle and mugs! Also include other snacks as necessary.

- ☐ Dismantle and disconnect – take down curtains, fixtures and fittings and disconnect white goods ready for transport.

- ☐ Outdoor items – make sure that these are stacked together and ready to be moved.

- ☐ Mobile – place your mobile on charge the night before moving and ensure that all relevant people have your number.

5 ON MOVING DAY:

AT YOUR OLD ADDRESS:

148.7mph electric record

Murketts' £99 service

WITH recent reports stating that garage labour costs have soared in the last year, local Vauxhall dealer, Murketts of Cambridge, is bucking the trend and providing a guaranteed 'no surprise' offer with Fixed Price Repairs and Fixed Price Service from just £99.

Plus, as a Vauxhall-branded retailer, customers can feel assured that they won't find better care for their Vauxhall anywhere else. So with winter fast approaching, there couldn't be a better time for drivers to take advantage of the expertise and fixed prices at Murketts of Cambridge.

Available from the dealership on Histon Road, the Vauxhall MasterFit Fixed Price programmes allow Vauxhall owners, whose vehicles are three years old or over, to receive expert services and repairs from Vauxhall-trained technicians with no costly, hidden extras.

Fixed prices are available across a range of common vehicle repairs, meaning that Vauxhall owners can now enjoy unbeatable value along with the peace of mind that their vehicle is being repaired by the people who know it best.

Available to owners of a range of Vauxhall models aged three years or older, the great value repairs include brake pads from £99, brake discs from £159, clutches from £399, cambelts from £199 and shock absorbers from £199. All prices include fitting and VAT.

Meanwhile, with the Vauxhall MasterFit Fixed Price Service offer available on interim services to a range of Vauxhall models which are three years old or over, customers at Murketts of Cambridge are able to make the most of the offer to ready their cars for the colder months.

Vauxhall trained technicians will change the oil and oil filter, and top-up the anti-freeze, coolant, windscreen washer and power-steering fluid levels. Plus they'll also carry out a full range of checks and adjust tyre pressures from the fixed price fee of just £99.

For details visit Murketts of Cambridge at 137 Histon Road, CB4 3JD, call (01223) 706706 or go to www.murketts.co.uk.

Nemesis' all-electric run sets new UK bar

THE team behind a supercar powered by energy from wind turbines believe they have smashed the UK land-speed record for an electric car.

This breaks the record of 137mph set by Don Wales, the grandson of speed ace Sir Malcolm Campbell, 10 years ago.

But the achievement still needs to be ratified by the Motor Sports Association before the record can be officially declared.

The makers of the Nemesis say it is the first electric supercar to be built in the UK and they hope it will "smash the stereotype" of electric-powered cars as boring and slow.

It is the brainchild of Dale Vince, founder of green electricity company Ecotricity, of Stroud, Gloucestershire.

"We built the Nemesis to smash the stereotype of electric cars as something Noddy would drive – slow, boring, not cool," Vince says.

New record: Driver Nick Ponting, left, with Ecotricity founder Dale Vince and the Nemesis.

He added that the Nemesis is powered entirely by electricity generated by Ecotricity's network of 53 wind turbines around the UK.

It was designed and built in less than two years by a team of leading British motorsport engineers in Norfolk.

The car began life as a second-hand Lotus Exige bought on eBay and rebuilt from the ground up.

Vince said he wanted to stimulate a debate about how everyone will move around when the world runs out of oil.

He said the Nemesis is capable of 0-100mph in 8.5 seconds and, on paper, is capable of topping 200mph.

The Nemesis can travel from 100-150 miles between charges, depending on driving style, and can be charged from empty in less than 30 minutes.

Ponting, who lives in Gloucester and works for an estate agency in Stroud, has had many years of experience racing a range of cars since his early teens.

He said the amazing thing about the car was its consistent acceleration at all speeds.

Last summer Mr Wales attempted to break his own record but ran into trouble on the beach at Pendine Sands in Carmarthenshire.

Vauxhall Adam available to order from £11,255 for February delivery

VAUXHALL has announced pricing and full specification details for its new Adam against the backdrop of the Eiffel Tower, prior to its official debut at the Paris Motor Show.

Personalisation is what the new urban-chic model is all about and, with almost limitless trim and equipment combinations available, each and every one of the annual 6.5 million visitors to Paris's world-renowned structure could specify an Adam like no other. Available to order from today with prices ranging from £11,255 to £14,000, the three-door, four-seat Adam is keenly positioned to take the fashion-led A-sector by storm.

There are three trims – JAM (fashionable/colourful), GLAM (elegant/sophisticated) and SLAM (racy/sporty) – 20 different wheel designs, over a dozen interior shades, and 12 different body colours, some of which are unique to Adam. With names like 'Purple Fiction', 'I'll be Black' and 'Men in Brown', owners will have no trouble remembering their choice! Initially offered with three petrol engines (1.2-litre 70PS, 1.4-litre 87PS and 1.4-litre 100PS) all of which are available with Start/Stop technology. The most economical Adam achieves a combined 56.5mpg and emits just 118g/km. Later in its life Adam will also be the first Vauxhall to adopt the new generation small petrol engine featuring direct injection and forced induction plus an all-new six speed gearbox.

The first cars will arrive in Vauxhall showrooms at the end of February. Prices for Adam JAM start at £11,255, moving up to £12,650 for Adam GLAM and £13,150 for Adam SLAM.

Paris Show displays a superb sense of style

THE hierarchy of the global motor show circuit is one of those curious phenomena that can't really be explained, writes Matt Joy.

As far as the European motor industry goes, Geneva – with its almost total absence of domestic car makers and a particular fondness for amazingly efficient public transport – is the top dog, even though the country in which it takes place is small in comparison.

The same goes for the US shows, where the megacities of Los Angeles and New York play second fiddle to Detroit, although the American car industry was born there which explains its relative might.

Right now the automotive circus has moved to Paris, which by any measure should make it one of the most style-packed shows of the year.

Judging by the list of debuts, it has the potential to punch above its weight: more than 20 production cars will debut this year as well as the usual slew of concepts.

But it will be the British and the German manufacturers that will gather the biggest crowds in Paris.

McLaren will reveal for the first time its P1 hypercar that sits above the MP4-12C in its range, while the slightly more humble Jaguar F-Type will be seen in final production form.

The new Jaguar F-Type represents a return to the company's heartland: a two-seater, convertible sports car focused on delivering performance, agility and maximum driver reward.

The car was revealed in front of the dramatic setting of the 18th century Musée Rodin. Following the reveal, singer Lana Del Rey took to the stage and performed a new track Burning Desire, that she has written as part of her collaboration with F-Type. The track is confirmed to be the sound track to a short film that is being produced in association with Ridley Scott and will feature on her new album.

Whether you see it as British or German, the all-new Range Rover will also attract masses of attention as the firm reveals only the fourth generation of its range-topping luxury SUV since 1970.

But out of all the cars appearing for the first time in Paris, it will be Volkswagen's Golf that will end up on the driveways of more show-goers than any other.

It is the cornerstone of Volkswagen's range and this seventh generation version promises further improved fuel economy and emissions, more gadgets and yet less weight.

It is the first Golf to use the latest MQB platform, which will underpin a host of Volkswagen Group cars, including the Seat Leon and Skoda Octavia, and it is this shared technology which creates the cost saving and subsequent stylistic freedom – because in a style-obsessed world, it is the thing that differentiates these cars more than anything else.

Pinker rescues a point

Wickhambrook 5 Wisbech St Mary 5
CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, UNDER-17A

TOM Pinker fired a hat-trick as Wickhambrook kept their unbeaten record by the skin of their teeth against the champions of the last two seasons.

Brook took the lead on 10 minutes when James Percy crossed from the right for Tom Pinker to thump home.

Wisbech equalised two minutes later from the penalty spot but David Crowley grabbed a second for Wickhambrook when he raced clear and lobbed the keeper.

Jordan Cowdrey's terrific run then set up Pinker to slot home and it was 4-1 at half time when Crowley rounded the keeper and finished from a tight angle.

Wisbech came out for the 2nd half all guns blazing and scored two inside 10 minutes. And they were level when a winger clipped in a 25-yard free kick.

Pinker had a goal ruled out for offside, and Wisbech went up the other end and scored from what looked a suspiciously offside position.

But Brook were not to be denied and man of the match Pinker thumped home for his hat-trick after great work again by Percy on the right.

Aztecs 0 Thurlow 3
CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE KO CUP, UNDER-14 FIRST ROUND

THURLOW pressured Aztecs from the start and, after Cameron Kicks was thwarted by a good save, a great run and pinpoint pass from Josh Dean enabled Charlie Ellam to slot home.

Thurlow stretched the lead when Finly

Fletcher finished from close range after a great Sam Goodwin corner.

The second half saw more of the same with Aztecs getting no joy from the solid Thurlow defence of Kai Farrant, Jack Hunsdon and man of the match Keiran Grace.

And Morgan Jones' cheeky back-heel completed the scoring.

West Wrattling 5 Cambridge Celts 2
CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE CUP, UNDER-13 FIRST ROUND

A DOMINANT first-half performance saw West Wrattling secure a deserved place in the second round.

Making the most of a slope advantage, Wrattling found the net four times before the break, with William Coleman, Jayden Bayford and Ethan Murphy (2) on target.

Man of the match Ronnie Ledwith was dominant in midfield throughout, and Wrattling secured victory early in the second half when Bayford scored his second with a great looping shot.

Celts kept persevering and, with the advantage of the slope, began to create some pressure on the Wrattling defence and pulled two back.

Newmarket Tn 4 Kedington 9
CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, UNDER-15A

NEWMARKET got off to a fantastic start and scored two goals in quick succession, but Kedington got back into the game when a long kick from keeper Jack Davis bounced over the defence, allowing Ty Alleyne to pull one back.

A few minutes later and Kedington were level as Aaron Thorne, George Mustoe and Kieren Harrison combined to slip the ball through to Alleyne for his second.

Conor Rankin's blistering shot put them in front, and Alleyne completed his hat-trick following a long kick from keeper Davis to make it 4-2 at half time.

Harrison extended the lead from the spot after Alleyne had been brought down, and the latter made it four for the match after latching on to Sam Street's ball out of defence.

Newmarket managed to pull another back before Cameron Larkin sent Alleyne on another run and, after his shot was blocked, Rankin following up neatly.

Alleyne then scored his fifth from Harrison' through ball and, after Newmarket scored again, Harrison wrapped up the goals by tapping in a cross from Alleyne.

Little Legends 3 Aztecs White 10
CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, UNDER-90

AZTECS continued their good start to the season thanks to a storming start, going 4-0 up in the opening four minutes.

A double from Freddie Hounsoume and Jordan Chippis gave them the flying start before Hounsoume added a fifth and Blackburn completed his hat-trick, all in the first quarter.

Legends pulled a goal back before Bart Purser thumped in the seventh and Ethan Hallam made it 8-1.

Legends never gave up and some good football saw them reduce the arrears to 8-3, but Hounsoume completed his hat-trick with a rare left-foot effort and Oliver Scroggie completed the scoring with the final kick of the game.

» Youth rugby

HAVERHILL under-15s (above) took part in their first competitive action of the season, with a trip to the Touchline Suffolk Youth Sevens at The Royal Hospital School.

Faced with a difficult pool, Haverhill started well in a close encounter against a strong Ipswich YM team. Dan Crashaw shone early on with superb tackling and counter rucking, while Lester Cuasay showed his potential with two well executed tries and James Carr also touched down. However, Haverhill narrowly lost, 24-21. After two further games against much stronger opposition, Haverhill played their last game against Colchester and, keen to bow out of the competition with their heads held high, did not disappoint. Converted tries from James Carr, Lester Cuasay and the try of the day from Brad Call allowed Haverhill to travel home with their pride intact. Player of the day was Ben Bradnam. CP

Get on track for 10-mile race

■ ATHLETICS: The Thurlow 10 race, organised by Haverhill Running Club, is returning for a second year.

The event, sponsored by Samuel's Estate agents, JMP Furniture Solutions and Sweatshop, will take place on Sunday October 21 at 10am.

The race is held on 10 miles of quiet country lanes and farm tracks, and the club would like to thank the Thurlow Estates for allowing access to private tracks, without which the race could not go ahead.

Entries are now open and cost £10 for runners affiliated to England Athletics, or £12 for unaffiliated runners.

Forms can be downloaded from the running club website www.haverhillrunningclub.org.uk or obtained from Haverhill Leisure Centre.

» Golf

RYAN Greenwood beat Grant Kingston in the final of the Mugs Cup Summer Matchplay Knockout at Haverhill Golf Club.

The competition is for those golfers with handicaps over 18, who have not yet won a Major. The match was close at the turn, however Greenwood (right) seized the advantage on the back nine to close out the match on the 16th to win by 3&2.

■ Haverhill's Chris Vince helped Suffolk to a third-place finish in the England County Finals held at Beau Desert in Staffordshire.

Suffolk overcame Worcestershire 6-3 in the third-place match of an event won by Wiltshire, retaining their title with victory over Lancashire.

■ Rebecca Richards won the

Ryan Mugs up on success

Ladies Stableford and Fraser Plate with a score of 38 points, ahead of Sharon Parsonson on 37 and lady captain Doreen Darbey on 36.

■ Dave Spittle came out on top in a field of 91 in the Men's September Medal and M Rayner Cup.

His nett score of 64 also helped trim his handicap by a shot to four.

Results - Division One: 1 Dave Spittle 69-5-64 (lowest gross), 2 Matthew Farlie 76-11-65, 3 Gerry Scott 75-6-69.

Division Two: 1 Martin Bentley 87-18-69, 2 Mich Calmet 88-18-70, 3 Glen Hughes 85-15-70. Division Three: 1 Chris Beirns 93-28-65, 2 Anthony Choat 89-23-66, 3 John Vale 95-26-69.

■ A score of 41 points earned

Brian Harney victory in the IFF Challenge, cutting his handicap by two shots to 20 in the process.

Results - Division One: 1 Peter McLennan 40pts, 2 Liam Merritt 39, 3 Peter Garner 39. Division Two: 1 Mark Firman 39, 2 Michael Goldsmith 38, 3 Mick Dalena 36. Division Three: 1 Brian Harney 41, 2 Peter Grant 38, 3 Anthony Choat 37.

■ Haverhill junior Joshua Hulyer played in the national finals of the UK Kids Golf Competition at Whittlebury Park in Buckinghamshire.

Although he did not feature in the prizes for his age category of eight-to-nine-year-olds, he scored 39pts – a commendable achievement at his first national event.

■ Haverhill halved their home mixed match against Gosfield, which was reduced to 10 holes because of bad weather.

Mumford's the word!

■ TENNIS: Joshua Mumford was the winner of Haverhill Tennis Club's first county tour red mini event of the winter season on Saturday.

Ten children took part in the eight-and-under event, with Mumford (Lavenham) and Josh Izod first and second in their group and Saul Hindmarch (Holbrook) and Harry Bird qualifying from their group.

Sam Fowle (Haverhill) was again unlucky not to come through the group stages as losing 10-8 in his final game pushed him down to third place.

Mumford won his semi-final 10-3 against Bird, while Izod beat Hindmarch in a very close match, 12-10.

Mumford won the final 10-4 against Izod to take his second consecutive competition at Haverhill in the last month. Bird took third place by beating Hindmarch 10-8.

A special mention must go to juniors Nicole Pike, Tristram Walsh and Ross Tobin, and coach Joshua Dashwood, for giving up their time to umpire the games.

HAVERHILL were left wondering what could have been as they were beaten 24-19 at home to Norwich Medics in Eastern Counties Two.

The hosts were dominant in the scrum, so Norwich opted to play to their strengths in the line-out and the back-line.

On five minutes, a lovely move from Adam Hunt saw the skipper gain 40 metres up the park, releasing No 8 Simon Potter for what looked like the first try, only for him to be taken out 10 metres from the line.

The Medics started to apply a little pressure on Haverhill, and opened the scoring from a quickly-taken penalty.

Four minutes later, they crossed again and, with both touchdowns converted, led 14-0.

On 22 minutes, Mickey Lansdowne crossed the line following a ruck, with Martyn Hughes converting.

Haverhill camped on the opposition's 5m line to no avail as they looked to level the score, and with two minutes to go to the break, Norwich spun the ball wide to touch down and lead 19-7.

Too often, Haverhill were guilty of giving away good advantage, with penalty kicks not finding touch or well-won ball just being lost seconds later.

But they started the second period on top and, after 54 minutes, Hunt released Brad Gibson to score, and Hughes' conversion reduced the arrears to five.

And they looked set for another try when the ball was spun wide towards Joe Brown, only for a Medics winger to intercept and gallop 80m to touch down.

Gibson was involved in the next Haverhill score on 63 minutes when he released Brown for a score in the corner for 19-24. But they were unable to get any more points despite holding their own in all facets of the game.

Haverhill travel to Mistley for their next league match on Saturday.

Cornwell's the head boy with late winner for Rovers

Haverhill Rov 2 FC Clacton 1
PREMIER DIVISION

A LAST-MINUTE diving header from Dan Cornwell saw Haverhill Rovers win their fourth successive game.

Rovers went ahead inside three minutes after Cornwell held a ball up in the Clacton penalty area and then fed Stuart Kingham, who swept the ball past Ed Wooten in the Clacton goal.

Further chances were wasted before the break, with Callum Harrison shooting straight at the goalkeeper when put through on his own, and Neil Cogger shooting over from the edge of the penalty area.

Clacton equalised early in the second half, when Jake Clowsley's shot slipped under Elliot Anderson's legs, but Rovers fought back well.

With a quarter of an hour remaining, Sam Holmes drove a fine ball across the Clacton defence, although there was no home forward available to convert the chance.

Harrison then spurned two chances in as many minutes, first shooting straight at the goalkeeper after a powerful Greg Strong run, and then volleying over after rounding the Clacton left-back.

With the game heading for a draw, Strong fed Cogger, who put in a delightful left-footed cross between the Clacton centre-back and goalkeeper and Cornwell rose to power his header home and give the Paffett's title challenge is going . . .

Down to the wire

GARY Paffett's challenge for the German Touring Car Masters Championship (DTM) will go right to the wire after a challenging weekend at the penultimate round in Valencia.

The Haverhill driver (pictured) now leads Bruno Spengler by just three points after being forced to retire in Spain following an incident involving Joey Hand on the second lap of the race.

Paffett had struggled for grip all weekend and qualified his Thomas Sabo Mercedes C-Coupe in eighth place. The contact with Hand ruined what was otherwise a promising start to the race and after staying out for 27 laps to see if he might make up some places, the decision was taken to retire the car.

Spengler earned some crucial points by finishing in sixth place to close the gap, while Jamie Green, third in the standings, had to settle for 10th.

"It's been a really tough weekend," said

Paffett, who will hope for better fortune when the championship comes to a climax at Hockenheim on October 21.

"Everyone has worked incredibly hard but unfortunately the pace just wasn't there. We made some changes to the car ahead of the race so were confident we could make up some places but then the incident on lap two put a stop to that.

"However we head to Hockenheim confident of securing another great result. We proved at the start of the year with a one-two at Hockenheim that our car is very quick there.

"This is just one of those weekends in racing that you just need to draw a line under, and now the focus in on the final race of the season and winning the drivers' championship."
